WEEKLY THOUGHT

Trust and Obey.

Following their defeat at the hands of the Canaanites and the Amalekites, the nation of Israel retreated to the wilderness. God had promised that this rebellious generation would not occupy the Promised Land. However, in spite of their failures to trust God with their future, He did not exclude them from his plans because he still loved so.

Like the Israelites of old, our default position seems to settle on disobeying God and doing things our way because we think we know best. Many of us will have encountered individuals who seem to have a better idea or a better ways of doing things, seemingly oblivious to any advice or guidance from what past experiences have taught you, regardless of any sound suggestion or instructions you give, they insist upon doing things their own way. Unfortunately, many of us are like that sometimes when it comes to spiritual things. God says to do it this way, but we want to do it that way. Historically, we know that doing things our own way only leads down one path.

Like a loving parent, God has the best intentions for us, he loved us so that the gave his only son to die for us that we might live. The love He has for us gives us the assurance that if we put our trust in him, peace will be upon us. He will guide us and teach us his ways, when we submit to his will as he had purposed for the children of Israel, we shall inherit the promise of eternal life though Jesus Christ. How easy would this life be if we fully committed and trusted in God, we would avoid the disappointment fruitless labour which leads to death. Let us rejoice in obedience to our Lord, for he is loving, caring and has a reward for those who do according to his will to trust him.
