WEEKLY THOUGHT

Love Life

"Whoever of you loves life and desires to see many good days," Psalm 34:12

Life must be lived well by all means and we must experience many good days in our lives, if not all. But it all depends on the choices we make here on earth while we have breath. Our desire to see and experience many days of God's goodness must influence the choices, plans and decisions we make on a daily basis.

The first lesson the Psalmist teaches in this regard is for us to "keep our tongues from evil and telling lies" (Ps 34:13). Many lives, marriages, and even nations, have been destroyed because of words spoken. As the phrase say "spoken words are powerful and they cannot be reversed". Tongues that speak evil of others and speak lies are destructive, very destructive. In the end, the one who employs the tongue for such things and behaviour, won't enjoy life to the fullest. Evil must be perpetuated to sustain what has been started (which is very sad).

Another lie must be added to previous pile of lies, so one is believed. Then one day all is exposed and what has taken years to build comes tumbling down. The tongue is one of the smallest organs of the body, yet very powerful to build or destroy. Do you love life, brothers and sisters? Do you want to see good days as we journey on awaiting his second coming? Then, let us keep our tongues in check.

Let us all pray that the Holy Spirit will guide us in our speech so that we use our tongues to build and not to destroy. Amen
Have a blessed Sabbath.

Justin Chinyama.
